

War's Prophecies

Perverse mankind, seldom content with the present, and often unwisely disdainful of the past, always has had an incorrigible curiosity about the future. Since the war began, this human yearning to probe into the unknown, and to look on the course of events before it has been run, has become a world-wide phobia. From darkest Africa to New York's now dimmed-out Great White Way, fortune tellers ply their trade as never before in our time. And from California's small towns, where mothers long for word of their sons, to the sophisticated night spots in our war-jammed cities, where soldiers and sailors and their girls seek a few hours of forced gaiety, men and women of all ages and all stations pray for the gift of prophecy.

Even the rulers of nations have not escaped the mania. The jittery Nazi government, dipping into the future to find its day of reckoning, comes out with an unqualified announcement that the invasion of Europe will begin on June 22, anniversary of the Franco-American armistice. In Washington, D. C., Kilsoo K. Haan, American representative of Japanese-occupied Korea, predicts a Japanese landing (or attempted landing) at Crescent City, and other points on the California coastline, "before October." And in San Francisco Jay W. Stevens, chief of the fire section of the Office of Civilian Defense, makes the forecast that California will be bombed on July 4.

Gypsy fortune tellers, Hindu crystal gazers, palm readers and those who find destiny in the fall of the cards, spiritualists and astrologers—all are doing a land-office business, as a troubled world seeks occult guidance. To only a few, however, is given the gift of prophecy, although many lay claim to it. But if we cannot know our future, we can have much to do with shaping it. Today, more than ever before in our lifetimes, we have it in our hands to write our own destiny—by the sweat of our brows, by unceasing labor and self-sacrifice, and by unswerving allegiance to the cause of freedom. In prayer, and in the quiet of the church, we can find solace and new hope. In the labor of our hands, we can find deliverance—and the promise of a better tomorrow. That is one prophecy we can rely on.

UNITED NATIONS FLAG DAY WILL BE OBSERVED JUNE 14

With the purposes of Flag Day broadened by Presidential proclamation to honor the flags of all the United Nations, the Office of War Information today announced that United Nations Flag Day June 14 will be celebrated in many parts of the world as well as throughout this country.

Theme of United Nations Flag Day will be "teamwork." This theme was set by President Roosevelt in his proclamation when he declared:

"Our armies, our navies, and our air forces are now perfecting the teamwork with our Allies which shall, under God, bring victory in this great cause to which freedom-loving mankind has dedicated itself. Made strong by our common bonds, we shall face the future with resolution and rededicate ourselves to the achievement of permanent collaboration among nations and security for all men."

Special rallies at warplants are being sponsored by labor-management committees in line with plans developed by the War Production drive headquarters of the War Production Board. According to W.P.B. officials 2200 labor-management committees, including those in virtually all of the Southland's major warplants, have been asked to schedule rallies at times when they will not interfere with production schedules.

At Army posts throughout the country, celebrations will place special emphasis on the President's proclamation and on the prayer for the United Nations which was written by Stephen Vincent Benet for Flag Day last year.

Women Wanted for Mounted Police Unit

Plans are rapidly crystallizing for organization of an active women's unit of the California Mounted Police Reserve in Lomita. The unit, under direction of Miss Anita Packwood, accomplished horsewoman, will drill weekly and will be available on immediate notice for work as a mobile first aid and messenger unit for the local civilian defense group.

Some weeks ago, Col. Charles W. Ridgway came to Lomita and started the movement to form a unit of the California Mounted Police Reserve of the Golden West of which he is area commander.

Col. Ridgway has mounted groups both men and women organized in numerous nearby towns. He contends that horsemen—and that means horsewomen as well—can function to much greater advantage than any other group during a disaster because they are trained and disciplined, ride their own well-drilled mounts and can get places that are impossible to reach with other means of transportation.

Seeking Volunteers
For some years, Miss Packwood, who started riding horses bareback in the middle west at the age of four, has taken an intense interest in teaching women to ride. She teaches regular army technique and her troopers will be able to do first aid work if there is need. Her riders will also be on the job for messenger service. She has conferred with Norman Gardner, senior air raid warden, and placed her proposed unit at his disposal.

Miss Packwood has two horses of her own. She is anxious to enlist as many women as possible in the unit. She lives at 26334 Fairview ave., Lomita. This address is one block west of Eschelmann, off 263rd st. She will take applications there and explain the program to those interested or she will furnish information to those who call at Lomita Elementary school where she is a teacher.

Women in this area who have horses or who can secure horses and who wish to enlist should see Miss Packwood at the earliest opportunity in order that dates for drills can be arranged.

Cereals Change Shifts

It used to be that we only saw cereals on the breakfast table. But since they contribute so much to the daily diet, they are gradually changing shifts and appearing with praise at other meals. If you're having any trouble keeping the nutritional standards of your meals up to par in face of limitations, then turn to whole grain and enriched cereals, both ready-to-serve and cooked, to help you out. They are Vitamin B foods, rich in protein and high in energy value.

Bake Him Homemade Bread for Lunch Box Sandwiches

GIVE that war worker of yours the extra lunch box treats he deserves. Bake him homemade bread! Its good homemade flavor will entice him to eat every crumb. And, remember, bread baked with today's enriched flour assures your worker the iron and B vitamins he needs.

HELPFUL HINTS—Sift flour before and after measuring. Flour packs down and cannot be measured accurately until loosened up by sifting. Knead dough in bowl with light, quick movements until it no longer clings to the sides. Bake bread until it gives a hollow sound when thumped with fingers. Remove from pans, cool on rack.

Mind you, it's easy to bake bread nowadays. With the new home-type flour that's made especially for home baking you can't fail. Try this tested recipe and see! Sift enriched home-type flour, measure 9 cups, sift again. Heat 1 1/2 cups milk, add 1 1/2 cups water; cool to lukewarm; add 1 1/2 cakes fresh yeast, crumbled, 3 tsp. sugar, 1 1/2 tbsps. salt; stir until dissolved. Add flour and 3 tbsps. shortening, mix until combined. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth. Place in greased bowl, cover with damp cloth; let rise in warm place (80° to 85° F.) to double in bulk, about 2 hours. Punch down; let rise again until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Divide into three equal parts; shape each into ball and let stand on lightly-floured board 15 minutes. Shape into 3 loaves; place in well-greased bread pans (9 x 4 x 3); let rise in warm place until well-rounded over top of pan, about 1 hour. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes; then moderate oven (385° F.), about 30 minutes longer or until done. Makes 3 one-pound loaves.
